A BILL TO PLACE STONEMAN ON THE RETIRED LIST.

Carlisle to be Pitted Against Blaine in the Tariff Debate.—The Fast Vanishing Surplus—Etc.

[SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE RECORD-UNION.]

TWELVE ROUNDS.

Proposition to Match Carlisle Against Blaine in a Tariff Debate.

WASHINGTON, August 17th.—The Star this evening says: Proposition is under consideration by the Democratic campaign managers to arrange for a joint discussion of the tariff question by Carlisle and Blaine in twelve of the principal cities of the Union, to be named by Blaine and the Speaker.

The opinions of a number of prominent Democratic Congressmen as to the advisability of such a course has been asked, and there is a very general concurrence of approval.

There is not one word of truth in this statement, so far as can be learned from Republican leaders in Washington, and the statement that Blaine has asked a majority of the Senate Finance Committee to abandon its tariff bill, is equally untrue.

SURPLUS DESTROYERS.

How the Democratic Administration is Getting Away With the Coin.

WASHINGTON, August 17th.—The Treasury surplus is being destroyed. The startling discovery has been made that instead of there being in the public vaults $100,000,000 or more, as the country was led to believe, there is actually but $13,000,000 left of that immense sum. Never before in the history of the country has there been such a prodigious destruction of gold. It is estimated by members of Congress who have given the matter attention that, taking into account the appropriations which have been made by the present Congress, including the public building bills and bills appropriating money that will, in all probability, become law, the present fiscal year will actually appropriate between $30,000,000 and $50,000,000 more than they did last year.

The Administration is becoming alarmed lest the one great issue which it would go before the country, and which it designed to offer as an excuse for introducing free trade, should be taken away and the party left to fight along with nothing to turn up. The Democratic party, in its national platform, in the speeches delivered in Congress, and in the campaign, has been preaching the gospel of economy, and yet its administration has exceeded all expenditures by something like 25 per cent. The above facts are beginning to leak out in Congressional circles and are causing quite a sensation on the Democratic side of the House.

BAYARD'S PET MEASURE.

The Secretary of State Feels Sad Over the Fate of the Treaty.

WASHINGTON, August 17th.—Secretary Bayard, in an interview with a reporter to-night regarding the fisheries treaty, said: "I have no knowledge, and never had any knowledge, of the intention of the President to withdraw the treaty." The Secretary said the rejection of the treaty will not necessarily result in the withdrawal of the treaty, but it will certainly result in the withdrawal of the treaty. The Secretary said the rejection of the treaty will not necessarily result in the withdrawal of the treaty, but it will certainly result in the withdrawal of the treaty.

CONGRESSIONAL PROCEEDINGS.

The Senate.

WASHINGTON, August 17th.—The Senate today indulged in filibustering tactics, following the example set frequently by the House.

Senator Clark wanted his bill appropriating $200,000 for the relief of the fishery, and the House voted to pass it.

The House.

WASHINGTON, August 17th.—A House conference was ordered on the sundry civil appropriation bill.

The consideration of bills on the private calendar was dispensed with, and on the previous question, the House voted to pass the bill.

The conference report on the bill granting a railway to the right-of-way through the Shoshone and Bannock Indian reservation in Idaho was presented and agreed to.

A motion to adjourn was lost.

BAKING POWDER ABSOLUTELY PURE.

For quick raising, the Royal Baking Powder is superior to all other leavening agents. It is absolutely pure and wholesome and of the highest leavening power. It is always uniform in strength and quality and never fails to make light, sweet, moist, palatable and nutritive food. Bread, biscuits, muffins, cake, etc., raised with Royal Baking Powder may be eaten hot without distressing results to the most delicate digestive organs. It will keep in any climate without deterioration.

Prof. H. A. Mott, U. S. Government Chemist, after examining officially the principal baking powders of the country, reported:

"The Royal Baking Powder is absolutely pure, for I have so found it in many tests made both for that company and the United States Government."

"Because of the facilities that company have for obtaining perfectly pure cream of tartar, and for other reasons dependent upon the proper proportions of the same, and the method of its preparation, the Royal Baking Powder is undoubtedly the purest and most reliable baking powder ever to be public."

THE VASTNESS OF INDIA.

A Populous Nation With Great Cities and a Great Empire.

For eighty years at least writers have endeavored to bring home to the outside world a knowledge of the vastness of India, but so far as can be perceived have failed. The average man, says the Fortnightly Review, reads what they say, learns up their figures, tries to understand their descriptions, but fails for all his labor, to realize what India is—a continent larger than Europe west of the Vistula, and with 30,000,000 more people, fuller of ancient nations, of great cities, of varieties of civilization, of armies, nobilities, priesthoods, organizations of every conceivable purpose, from the spreading of great religions down to the systematic murder. There are twice as many Bengalees as there are Frenchmen; the Hindostanes, properly so called, outnumber the whites in the United States; the Mahatras would fill Sicily; the people of the Punjab with Sindh are double the population of Turkey; and the whole of the four of the more salient divisions.

Everything is on the same bewildering scale. The fighting peoples of India, whose males are as big as ourselves, and more regardless of death than ourselves, number at least 120,000,000, equal to Gibbon's calculation of the population of the Roman Empire. There are 400,000,000 of brown soldiers in the native service, of whom we hear, perhaps once in ten years, and 2,000,000 men who think that their proper profession is arms, who would live by arms if they could, and of whom we in England never heard a word. If the British conscription were applied to India we should, without counting reserves or landwehr, or any force not summoned in time of peace, have 2,500,000 soldiers actually in barracks, with 800,000 recruits coming up every year—a force with which not only Asia but the world might be subdued. There are tens of millions of prosperous peasants whose hoardings make the land the grand absorbent of the precious metals, tens of millions of peasants beside whose poverty fellows or Connaught men are rich, millions of artisans, ranging from men who build palaces to the men who, nearly naked and almost without tools, do the humblest work of the potter. Every occupation which exists in England exists in India. The industry of the vast continent never ceases, for India, with a population in places packed beyond European precedent, is producing nothing either to eat or drink, and for the Europeans would import nothing whatever. She is sufficient to herself for everything save silver. Amid these varied masses, these 250,000,000, whose varied descriptions would fill volumes, the tide of life flows as vigorously as in Europe.

There is much labor, as much contention, as much ambition, as much crime, as much variety of careers, hopes, fears and hatreds. It is still possible to a moneyless Indian to become Viceroy of a dynasty older than history, or Finance Minister of a new Prince whose personal fortune in hard cash is double that of the late Emperor William, or abbot of a monastery richer than Glendhurst ever was, owner of an estate that covers a county, head of a house whose transactions may vie with those of the Barings or Bleichroders. One man, Jule Pershad by name, fed and transported the army which conquered the Punjab.—Doston Herald.

Problems and Solutions.
Recently the following problem, received for publication, appeared in the Record-Union:
The dimensions of a rectangle box are 234, and the difference between the cost of covering its surface with gold and silver leaf is $1056. What are the dimensions of the box?
The following solutions have been received:
No. 1.—44, 104, 117 square feet = area of the entire surface of the box, (since a half-penny in difference of price = square foot). Now let us take a box whose breadth is 2 feet, height 3 feet, and length 4 feet. We have:
232 = 12
242 = 16
242 = 24

52 square feet = area of its surface; but the given cost is 234, and since the ratio of similar surfaces is as the squares of the corresponding sides, we have:
52:117::234:117 = to the square root of 117 = 10.81665
52:117::234:117 = to the square root of 117 = 10.81665

NEW PUBLICATIONS.

From "The California View Publishing Company," San Francisco, we have an elegantly illustrated work, consisting of 100 pages, "California Illustrated." It is the first number of what is to be a series of volumes, each devoted to a different branch of agriculture and horticulture of California. It was prepared by Edward J. Wickson, the copyright being by W. R. Nutting. The volume is issued by a corporation organized for the purpose, with Mr. Nutting as manager. The first number is devoted to the horticulture of California. There are eighty-five fine views drawn from photographs executed in chromolithography by H. C. Crocker & Co., San Francisco. The text is expository of fruit and agricultural sections of California. The views fortify and emphasize the text, and it is no exaggeration to speak of them as about the finest work of the kind ever produced upon the coast. The colors appear to be sharp and strong, but it will be readily understood that the high character of the pictures, and the admirable perspective and immense sweep of country shown in each. The volume for sale by the publisher, at $1.00 per copy, and is a splendid addition to the library of every seeker. It is for sale by Meigs, the news agent, Sacramento.

"St. Nicholas" for August is chiefly an outdoor number. The story of "The Serpent" is by August Edwards Stevenson; "The Little Moccasin's Ride on the Red River" is by George W. Brown; "The Bell-Buoy's Story" by Lucy G. Morse, is a delightful story, and is beautifully illustrated by Mrs. A. D. Durbin. Mrs. Olive Thorne Miller writes of "The Dear Dolls," and the paper is followed by two sketches of a simple subject, to be repeated by Mary L. Branch, is a short account of a noble Hindu woman, who is trying to educate the girls of India. Richard Malouin tells us about "Mr. Crowley," the author of "The Little Book of the East." The story of Miss Louie is continued; Wong Chin Foo has an illustrated article showing the ways and manner of life of the Chinese in New York; Paul R. Cleveland writes upon "The Literature of the Future"; Frank G. Carpenter has an attractive article upon "The Ladies of the 'Old Court'"; and a number of other interesting articles.

The mid-summer holiday "Cosmopolitan" is issued this month, and is the first number ever presented to its readers by the Cosmopolitan Magazine Company. The initial number of the magazine, by Mrs. S. B. Herick, has four full-page fine illustrations in color. The story of Miss Louie is continued; Wong Chin Foo has an illustrated article showing the ways and manner of life of the Chinese in New York; Paul R. Cleveland writes upon "The Literature of the Future"; Frank G. Carpenter has an attractive article upon "The Ladies of the 'Old Court'"; and a number of other interesting articles.
